

Why Should We Care About Development Finance? ...because it's our money!

Volume 2, Issue 34, March 08, 2019

Wake Up World Bank

The US Supreme Court's verdict on the Buddha Jam v. IFC case upholds that the rights of the people are above the privileges of the rich and powerful. In a world where spaces are shrinking for people to dissent in order to protect their rights and are disempowered before the might of corporations and financiers, this verdict becomes more significant. Humanity Absent from World's Most Acclaimed Development Report

The report has not just suggested eliminating the responsibility of social protection from the private sector and superstar firms, but altogether failed to address and recall the need of commitment from advanced nations to contribute in global development, by limiting the scope of the report to just low and middle-income economy experiments and discussions. 'Employee Directors Could Have Curtailed Bad Loans'

In an interview with Newsclick, Devidas Tuljapurkar, Joint Secretary, All India Bank Employees' Association, who blew the whistle on the scandal related to unpaid loans by companies in the group headed by fugitive Vijay Mallya, argues that the presence of employee-directors on the boards of public sector banks could have checked the rapid rise of non-performing assets (NPAs).
