

Why Should We Care About Development Finance? ...because it's our money!

Volume 3, Issue 21, November 22, 2019

Global Mass Protests: Why the Ubiquitous Outrage?

From Algeria, Bolivia, Britain, Chile, Ecuador, Catalonia, Hong Kong, Iraq, Lebanon and to the most recent one in Pakistan and more elsewhere, pressing issues like income inequality, surging prices, political freedom, climate change and political and economic corruption of the ruling elites have pulled people in to the centre stage of a universal dissension. In India, government has been religiously paving way for the liquidation of public and cooperative sector banks with PMC being the latest casualty, destruction of public universities with more than 300% fee hikes in Central and State Universities like JNU, proposals for privatization of telecom, railways and national airlines and economic strangulation of regions like Kashmir demanding statehood with the recent estimation of economic losses in the territory running into atleast $1.40 billion.
