

Why Should We Care About Development Finance? ...because it's our money!

Volume 6, Issue 25, December 16, 2022

The Economy This Week!

Given the risks, financiers are increasingly confident in investing in renewable projects rather than traditional thermal projects. However, India would require an estimated $10 trillion USD to achieve Net Zero by 2070. As the G20 Chair, India can persuade the G7 to increase MDB lending for climate finance. Meanwhile, Coal vs Renewables Financial Analysis 2022 identifies L&T Finance as the largest financier in renewable energy project finance in 2021, replacing SBI.

No escape from the lower-middle income trap, at least not yet

In September 2022, the CFA explained how India's credit outflows flipped or inverted even before the pandemic set in. Personal loans overtook loans to the large industry in FY20 and continued to do so in FY21 and FY22; they overtook loans to the industry as a whole in FY21 and continued to do so in FY22.

In Nagaland, Despite An Act To Protect Street Vendors, Women Vendors Struggle For Basic Amenities

Every morning, 42-year-old Loni Yalie neatly places vegetables, fruits, dry fish and a variety of edible worms at a spot in the Local Ground area in Nagaland's capital Kohima. After the death of her husband, Yalie has been the sole breadwinner for her three school-going children. Read more.

The Coal Trail: Tracking Investments in Coal-Fired Thermal Power Plants in India

India's installed capacity for power generation has also seen a tremendous rise, standing at 405.77 GW. What is also readily observable is the dominant share of coal in the installed capacity equalling 204 GW, and is likely to retain its leading position in meeting the country's power demand.
